WINES - FRANCE

BORDEAUX

The Bordeaux viticultural region stretches for 80 miles (130km) inland from the Atlantic coast. It is home to more than 10,000 producers, who turn out a vast quantity of wine every vintage. These range from inexpensive everyday wines through to some of the world's most expensive and prestigious labels. Bottles of dry red wine produced under the region's generic Bordeaux appellation can be bought for just a few euros. Those from the top chateaux are regularly traded for several thousand euros.

The majority of Bordeaux's wines are the dry, medium-bodied reds for which the region is known. The finest and most prestigious of these come from the great chateaux of the Haut-Medoc, Pessac-Leognan, Saint-Emilion and Pomerol on the 'right bank' of the Dordogne River. Far from a one-trick region, however, Bordeaux also produces white wines (both dry and sweet) of very high quality. The most notable of these come from the Graves district, at the southern end of which are the botrytis-blessed vineyards of Sauternes.

BURGUNDY

CAVE DE LUGNY

Confirming cooperative power, the 250 member Maçon-based Cave de Lugny controls about 10% of Burgundy's white wine production. That's approximately 12 million bottles a year. Consequently, the Cave is leading the Burgundian fightback against the all-conquering New World Chardonnay brands. Like most regions in the world, Burgundy makes sparkling wine, known locally as Crémant de Bourgogne. It is made using the "Methode Traditionelle", the same way wines are made in Champagne. The grapes used are the same and Cave de Lugny also ages the wine longer than legally required – 14 months as against the legal requirement of 9 months.

FWM257	✉ Macon Lugny AC		Maconnais	12	€150.00

LA CHABLISIENNE

Based right in the centre of the Chablis vineyards, La Chablisienne's 300 members own approximately 1,150 ha. including 600 ha. of Chablis and 300 ha. of Petit Chablis. The portfolio also comprises 150 ha. of Chablis 1er Cru and 13 ha. of Grand Cru. These top "Kimmeridgian" limestone clay vineyards being the icing on the cake of a 7 million-bottle Chardonnay production each year. That's a quarter of Chablis' total annual bottle count.

With 75% of sales designated for the export market, they are definitely one of Chablis' global ambassadors. In the 1er Cru class we recommend "Vaulorent", a property next to Les Preuses Grand Cru. This wine was declared "White Wine of the Year" in the A&A Farmar book "The Best of Wine in Ireland 2008".

Domaine Christian Bernard is a 10 ha. estate in a patchwork of vines that spreads over seven different 'climats' or named vineyards (eg "Les Côtes"). The average age of the vine is relatively high, giving good yields. Christian Bernard, a 3rd generation winemaker, produces wines that are full-flavoured and packed with sweet, juicy fruit.

LOIRE VALLEY

DOMAINE PAUL PRIEUR

This superb Sancerre comes from Sauvignon Blanc grapes grown on several parcels of vineyards, mainly in the communes of Verdigny and Sancerre. Didier Prieur carefully assembles the cuvées, so the different soils of each commune contribute to the wine's richness and complexity. The wine is fermented slowly and aged in stainless steel to preserve all of the natural fruit. The inviting bouquet of flowers and fresh fruit leads to a medium-bodied wine that is very versatile with different foods. It complements grilled fish and chicken dishes, cold trout, salmon and seafood, soft-shelled crabs and pasta primavera.

The estate is now owned by Baron Patrick de Ladoucette, a descendant of the Comte Lafond, and Pouilly Fumé has earned a reputation as one of the world's great white wines.

Haut Poitou, an area of some 800 ha. situated to the south of the Loire Valley, near Poitiers, is France's newest appellation, a long overdue upgrade for the region. The 2011 vintage is the first to carry the A.C. Haut Poitou was the source for our NOffLA award-winning Sauvignon "L'Abbaye" – a superb value-for-money wine. The estate produces a full bodied Muscadet from low yields. With amazing soils and very old vines, the wines from Noë frequently win awards in France. A dry, fruity, distinctive wine with good acidity. The perfect partner to seafood. Côteaux of Sèvre and Maine is divided into a score of small islands and the vineyards are located around the winery. The age represents an obvious asset to the quality of the wines and the extent of the territory and different soils allows the wine experts to assemble wines of great qualities to the exceptional perfumes.

CHATEAU MONT REDON

This estate can trace its origins back to 1334. At that time the land belonged to a papal castle and Mont Redon paid taxes to the Church. Since 1923 the estate has remained in the Abeille and Fabre families. They have 174 ha. in the Châteauneuf-du-Pape appellation. Their white is generally top in the appellation, with their red not far behind. There was an expansion in 1980 with 30 ha. being purchased in the Côtes du Rhône appellation, followed by 20 ha. in the Lirac appellation in 1987. Recent vintages have been consistently excellent.

In Southern Rhone Valley where wine asserts his masculine character more than elsewhere, Maison Camille Cayran promotes its singularity. The elegance, complexity and feminine personality of our wines prevail over the sole expression of power, to give generous and accessible wines that are accessible and never austere.

Through our Rhone Valley range, it is our Cairanne appellation wines that best embody that "Ying" personality: full of grace and subtlety, while round and mellow. A lovely wine maker of classic value wines. Ripe red fruits, light velvet tannins and provence herbs are trademarks of this producer.

VEUVE CLICQUOT

Veuve Clicquot Ponsardin is one of the world's finer champagnes, the product of a winery founded by Phillippe Clicquot in 1772 in Reims. The champagne as we know it today is actually the progeny of Philippe Clicquot-Muiron's wife and widow (Veuve is French for widow), the rotund Barbe-Nicole Ponsardin, who, on Philippe's death in 1805, possibly from suicide—business was slow—took over the winery when she was 27 and, as a single mother, not only turned it into the successful and noble enterprise it's been since, but played a key role in transforming champagne from the cloudy product of fermentation it had been until that time into, eventually, the clear bubbly we know today. In short, she was the mother of the méthode champenoise.

The Krug's exception, a unique champagne blending tradition and quality. The purpose of Johann-Joseph Krug was to create a single champagne. Thus, he created the House Krug in 1843. The 6 generations, which have succeeded, followed the spirit of the founder. They continue to transmit the philosophy and the Krug's know-how, in order to preserve the unique style of Krug. Through its methods, and its fermentation in small oak-barrels (unique for a house of Champagne), Krug has been for many years, the reference for the Champagne of Prestige.

They do not subscribe to the theory that Old World vinification techniques applied in a New World context will always bring out the best of both. However, it is their experience that certain traditional techniques such as natural fermentation for all their reds and leaving the whites on fine lees longer than the norm, manifests in making bright and fruity New World style wines that somehow still retain an underlay of old European flair in their crafting and taste. They are certainly world class representatives of their unique viticultural environment.
